The Story

We are proud to be a Hertfordshire company. The Beale family can trace its company history back to 1769 when John Beale opened a shop in Oxford Street.

It is this local heritage that is still as central to the philosophy of the company today as it was almost 250 years earlier. There are two striking examples of this commitment at Beales Hotel.

There are over 130 individual pieces of art that adorn the walls of every area of the hotel. Every piece is from a Fine Art degree student of the University of Hertfordshire Creative Arts department, based here in Hatfield. Each piece comes with its own artist statement detailing the idea behind their art. Please take time to look at the art and take one of our brochures away with you that has more information.

In Hertfordshire there is a fantastic wealth of local food and we try to source our food locally where possible. Meat from Hertford, eggs from Royston and honey from our very own bees at West Lodge Park Hotel are just some of the examples of our commitment. Please read our local food brochure and feel free to take a copy away with you for more information.
